DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

2 A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1,4,7,8,10,11,14,15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wang et al (US 2004/0072553).

Wang et al A method of finger placement in a RAKE receiver comprising:

receiving a composite signal that includes one or more signal images;

generating a multipath delay profile for the composite signal over a defined search window at a first delay resolution (note that the first stage search is performed at one chip or less described at paragraph [0008]); and determining delay assignments for placement of one or more fingers of the RAKE receiver within the search window based on a second delay resolution (note that the second stage search at half-chip to an eighth chip described at paragraph [0008] to make a delay decision) that is independent of the first delay resolution. According to Wang et al there is no teaching that there is dependence between the first search resolution and the second search resolution.
